

Bob is getting drinks with his coworkers but realises the drinks they are getting are way too expensive.

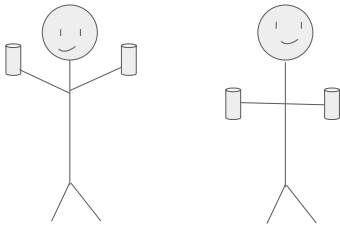

Bob opens the DrinkFinder app.

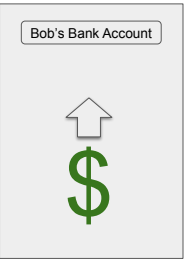

He enters in his location and within seconds 100s of results pop up for places to get drinks with the cheapest being at the top of the list.

Bob and his coworkers decide on a place to go based on the price and rating displayed on the app.

The place they ended up going becomes the group's new favorite spot to hang out on the weekends.

Bob can now have a good time with his friends without having to worry about putting a dent into his bank account.